Teachers' Pension Bill.

The Teachers' Pension Bill has been introduced in the Lower House at Frankfort. This bill provides for a pension fund from which pensions are to be issued to the teachers retiring after thirty years of active service, and also contains a sick benefit proviso. To raise the pension fund a tax of $10 or $20 a year will be levied on the teachers, according to their salary, and also one half of 1 per cent on all taxable city property. The fund, after the first year, would be approximately $3,000, and the bill provides for the investment of this money in some paying proposition. According to the provisions of the bill a teacher retiring after thirty years of active service shall receive $600 a year and for any teacher retiring after twenty-five years active service a pension of $500 per year is allowed.

Whose Is It?

Charles Morgan, the negro who was recently killed in the railroad wreck at Atlanta, Ga., is said to have had his life insured for $1,000, payable to his wife, and that she had her life insured for half that amount, payable to her husband. If both were instantly killed, will the money go to his people or to her people? If he died first, the money belonged to her at the time of his death, and if she died first, the money belonged to him or to his estate. In a case in which a man and his wife had made wills in each other's favor and both were drowned by the sinking of a boat, no other person being present the Courts decided that as the man was the stronger, he probably lived longer than the wife and the property went to his people. In a railroad accident, strength would cut no figure and this precedent would not serve.

Fallen Asleep.

In tender memory of little Mayme, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stone W. Maupin, who died January 15, 1912. Little Mayme is dead. The brief span is over, the little sunbeam, dropped as a priceless jewel into loving arms of adoring young parents, has fulfilled its mission, and gone back to the God who gave, as sweet, pure and fleeting as the misty frolicking snow flakes that mantled the earth just as the spirit of our babe winged back its flight to eternal glory to Heaven and to rest. Blessed be our resurrected babe, the little mound in the city of our dead and the finger of promise pointing to the way of peace. Rest to her soul; sweet sleep to the mouldering clay. Fallen asleep dear babe—Called back to our God to rest. Your white hands crossed on your breast as soft—As down on a dove's sweet breath. Tenderly, unaware. Sleep came in the waning night And kissed her there on the twilight That leads to the morning light. Only a little dust—So small that a rose might hide it, And we trust in God—or try to trust—When we kneel in grief beside it. We kneel at her grave and say, We only dream that we weep; She would not leave us and go away—She has only fallen asleep. And that she will awake we know, And smile at a grief like this! It could not be she will leave us so. With never a good-night kiss. So we kneel by her grave and say, We only dream that we weep; She would not leave us and go away—She has only fallen asleep. AUNT IDA, Richmond, Ky., January 28, 1912.

A Righteous Decision.

The Winchester Democrat says: "Judge Evans this week rendered a decision that will make him solid with the women: a lady, the wife of a tenant farmer, sold turkeys, chickens, eggs, butter, etc., saved the money and bought a horse. Without her knowledge or consent, her husband traded the animal off. The trade did not suit her, and she brought suit for the possession of her horse. While admitting the source from which she purchased the horse, the opposing lawyer claimed that all these things which she had sold really belonged to her husband. Judge Evans would not see it in that light and ordered the horse returned to her."

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 7 - - - 1912

A FEATURE of the legislative proceedings in Virginia last week was the introduction of a bill which forbids the marriage of drunkards and drug fiends and provides a penalty of $100 and one year's imprisonment for the clerk who issues license to such persons and the minister performing the ceremony.

Several months were spent by Hon. Jonathan Bourne, progressive Republican Senator from Oregon, in gathering data on the subject of the use of Federal patronage to control national conventions. One night recently his office was entered, and his files were looted of all this material.

Just now the Democratic party seems to be allied with that old-time trouble, Colonel's edict. Too many Colonels in her midst. Colonels Watterson, Harvey and Hearst and others are taking up matters where Colonel Cal Brice, Oliver Payne, Whitley and McLean left off; trying to lead a great party named Democratic round by the nose.—Climax Post.

Labor interests won a far-reaching victory in the United States Supreme Court by a decision that railroads must carry beer when offered for transportation into "dry counties" of another State. The decision affects particularly shipments from Indiana into Kentucky. The Court held that beer and intoxicating liquors were legitimate commodities of commerce under the interstate law.

SENATOR LA OLLETTE, in a public speech at Dayton, Ohio, a few days ago, said: "Women have as much right to the ballot as men. There are 7,000,000 women in this country earning their own living by wages, and they are adding to the wealth of the nation. For this reason they have a moral right to have a voice in the questions of sanitation and all that goes to improve living conditions of the home, which are governed by legislation."

REMOVALS that Governor McCreary is pressing hard for the fulfillment of his political pledges are acceptable in our ears. It was a good platform, and, if we get all of them on our statute books, we won't have as much right to the Herald. The above, coming as it does from the leading Republican paper of the State, shows that the people of Kentucky have nothing to regret for having elected the ticket they did last fall, and the Herald is to be congratulated upon the course it is taking in regard to the new administration by giving honor to whom honor is due.

THE CLIMAX publishes elsewhere in this issue a memorial to the Legislature of Kentucky, submitted by sixteen members of the Madison County Medical Association. The object of this paper is to urge upon the members of the General Assembly the importance of a full and complete investigation as to how the affairs of the State Board of Health and the Kentucky State Medical Association have been conducted during the past twenty years. The Climax cannot understand why Dr. McCormack or any member of the profession in Kentucky should object, in the slightest, to such an investigation, since it is a State office and the people of Kentucky have a right to know how and where the money appropriated by the Legislature is expended.

This Eastern compulsory primary bill passed the Senate Wednesday by a vote of 37 to 0. It is an administrative measure and is designed to do away with political bosses in Kentucky. It provides that both parties shall hold primary elections on the same day under the direction of the State. The House at the same time undertook the consideration of the Thompson bill and adopted amendments making it nearly like the Thompson bill. It was said that the Thompson bill would give the House a large majority. The Eaton and Thompson bills give the people unrestricted freedom in the selection of their candidates for office, and does away entirely with packed conventions and similar practices. The bill passed by the Senate was amended only slightly, and these amendments were accepted by the House primary bill, offered in the Senate as a substitute, was defeated by a vote of 25 to 12. An amendment providing that the law shall not apply to primaries already called legally for this year was defeated.

A Failure.

When the Burley Tobacco Pool was organized several years ago it was announced that Missouri would enter the pool as a raiser of Burley tobacco, and quite a number of skilled tobacco farmers were induced to go there for that purpose. They were coming back wiser and poorer, and convinced that tobacco raising there is a failure.

Do you know that more real danger lurks in a common cold than in any other ailment? It is the gateway to a host of troubles. It is the gateway to a host of troubles. It is the gateway to a host of troubles.

For a cold, easy action of the bowels, a single dose of Doan's Regulax is enough. Treatment courses habitual constipation with a box. Ask your druggist for them.

Deaths

ZITTE—Miss Nora Zittle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Zittle, died at her home in Waco, January 15, of a complication of diseases, having been confined to her room fourteen weeks. Deceased was a devoted member of the M. E. church, South, having given her life to the service of her fellow men. She was of a quiet and gentle disposition, always ready to lend a helping hand to those in need. The suddenness with which she bore her long illness was characteristic of her beautiful Christian life. Funeral services were conducted at the residence by her former pastor, Rev. V. O. Beck, assisted by Rev. Wyatt, in the presence of a large and sympathetic concourse of friends, after which the remains were laid to rest by the side of her father and mother in the College Hill burying ground. She is survived by one brother, V. B. Zittle, and three sisters, Mrs. G. D. McElroy, and Miss Fannie Zittle, of Waco, and Mrs. H. C. Lowry, of Huntington, W. Va. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to them in their sad bereavement.

Has Congressional Bee.

Jack Chinn, of Harrodsburg, who is in Frankfort, to see what the solons are doing, admits that the Congressional bee is buzzing in his brain, and that conditions may arise that will cause him to get into the race for the Democratic nomination in this event. "You can take it from me," says Col. Chinn, "that I will beat the barrior and finish in first place." Col. Chinn, who lives in the Eighth Congressional district, is one of the most interesting political characters in the State, and has a host of devoted friends who would stand by him to the last. He has served in the Senate and House. He is close to the tobacco growers and stands solid with the organized dairymen.—Louisville Times.

FOR CONTROL OF LEGISLATURE

Governor McCreary Pushing His Program Right Along.

It is believed that the Governor's program is being pushed right along. The Governor is pushing his program right along. The Governor is pushing his program right along.

STRONG POLITICAL ADVANTAGE

Not Only Does Majority Party Stand Committed to Certain Things, but It So Happens That the Most Important of These Measures Are the Very Ones to Which the Governor Has Lent the Weight of His Influence.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 6.—Not since the session of 1904, when Gov. Beck had in some extent the control of the legislature and was able to put through anything he wanted, has a governor been so completely the master of the legislative situation as is James McCreary at the present time. He occupies the position for various reasons, some of them political, but his greatest strength lies in the fact that the Democratic party stands committed to his policies and those things which he recommends for enactment into law.

That the governor and his friends are able to pass any bill on which they are agreed, is generally conceded. It is now that the county unit bill has been passed in both houses. It was conceded that the county unit bill would be the hardest knot to unravel, and if that bill could be passed with so much ease it is believed that the administration now will be able to get through every measure which is on the program. And it was not a simple program. The governor set out to perform. He has done so, and he has done so.

He has done so, and he has done so. He has done so, and he has done so. He has done so, and he has done so.

He has done so, and he has done so. He has done so, and he has done so. He has done so, and he has done so.

cal, and one house must accept the bill offered by the other, before any bill can go to the governor. TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Jane Calahan suffered from womanly trouble for nearly ten years. In a letter from Whiteville, N. C., she says: "I was not able to do my own housework. My stomach was weak, and my blood was wrong. I had backache, and was very weak. I tried several doctors, but they did me no good. I used Cardui for 3 or 4 months, and now I am in the best health I have ever been. I can never praise Cardui enough." It is the best tonic, for women.

Whether seriously sick, or simply weak, try Cardui.

Impressive Ceremonies.

The presentation of crosses of honor to the veterans will be one of the most impressive ceremonies of the Confederate Reunion which will be held in Mason, May 7-9. The men who will be honored will receive their crosses from the hands of the president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. If the present plan is not changed General C. Irvine Walker, Commander-in-Chief of the veterans, his staff and W. G. Pritchard, Commander-in-Chief of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans, and his aides will be to the right and left of the president of the Daughters when the tributes are presented. State Regents of the Daughters will flank the veterans on the right, while the maids and sponsors of the Sons will be on their left. Mrs. Walter Douglas Lamar, state regent of Georgia and president of Sidney Lanier Chapter, is planning to make this gathering the crowning event of the reunion, from the standpoint of the Daughters. Mrs. Lamar not only has the moral support, but the active cooperation of all members of the chapter of which she is the head. All are working to make the ceremony surpass any of the same character ever held. Announcement has not yet been made as to where the meeting will be held. Mrs. Lamar and the committee of ladies working with her have several places under consideration and will decide this question at an early date.

Plan to Enrich Land.

Now while planning to grow crops next year that you may meet your bills and to lay aside a possible saving, study how you are paid to make some or all of your field more productive. If there is farming, the yields must be increased and the land must be enriched before we can expect much increase.

Every time you do something to enrich the land you are adding to your capital and thus are becoming a more independent man. You are making means do not allow that poor land to remain poor.

Use your fertilizer with a view not only to producing a crop but also to leaving the soil richer. Legumes—clovers beans and peas are legumes—when grown and fed on the land enrich it in nitrogen, so these should be included in the rotation. The soil needs humus, so try to plant a crop to grow to harvest with hogs and then to turn under or grow a crop solely to turn under; the reward will come in the future.

Montgomery and Stone

In "The Old Town," at Lexington, Feb. 7th.

Manager Charles Dillingham announces the first engagement in Lexington, of these really clever musical comedians, Montgomery and Stone, in their latest musical comedy success, "The Old Town," by Geo. A. Le and Gustav Luders, which opens matinee and night, Wednesday, Feb. 7th.

There is nowhere today on the American stage the counterparts of Montgomery and Stone. We have had many imitators who have appeared here in plays made famous by them, such as "The Wizard of Oz" and "The Red Mill," but this is the first time we have ever had the originals in one of their latest productions. Montgomery and Stone are this season making their first visit to all that territory that lies west of the Missouri River and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. So insistent has been the clamor for these versatile comedians that Mr. Charles Dillingham, their manager, has postponed his annual production that they might make this trans-continental tour and become acquainted with a new audience who hail their coming with intense interest. The engagement here will find the original company and all the effects that delight thousands in all of the principal cities of the East. Some 35 people comprise the numerical strength of the company which calls for specialists to every point.

Coldest January For Forty Years.

Last month was the coldest January for forty years in the history of the Weather Bureau in Louisville, says the Louisville Times. The highest temperature recorded was 54 degrees on January 23 and the lowest 8 degrees below zero on January 7. The greatest daily range was 34 degrees on January 17. The mean temperature for the month was 24.5 degrees, colder even than the mean temperature for 1900 when the low mark of 25 was reached. January's temperature normally is 34.3 degrees. January was very cold from the 4th to the 16th of the month, inclusive, the minimum on the 7th, being the lowest since February 9, 1899. The total precipitation for the month was 3.45. January's normal precipitation is 2.90 inches. There was 12.5 inches of snow, the greatest fall in 24 hours coming on the 11th, when 8.2 inches fell. The greatest amount of rainfall in a day came on the 28th and 29th, when 1.15 inches fell. The total snowfall during the month was greater than for any other January since 1890. Cold waves warnings were issued on January 6, 11, 14 and 18. On the 4th of the month an extreme wind velocity of fifty-two miles an hour was reached. There were but ten clear days in the past month. Nine days were partly cloudy and twelve cloudy. The river was nearly full of floating ice from the 9th to the 16th, and ice blocked the channel from the 17th to the 20th. Navigation was closed from January 8 to 29.

First Lagrippe, Then Bronchitis.

Such was the case with Mrs. W. S. Bailey, McCreary, Ky. "My wife was taken down with a severe attack of lagrippe, which ran into bronchitis. She coughed so much that she could not eat and could not sleep at night. The doctor's medicines gave her no relief and I was advised to try Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. The first bottle gave her so much relief that she continued using it and three bottles effected a permanent cure." Mr. W. S. Bailey says he is prepared to answer all inquiries promptly.

What Do You Think of This?

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature providing for a tax of $1 per acre to provide a road fund. There can be no doubt that if a bill of this character could be passed that it would raise a large fund, but it is entirely unreasonable, as it would subject the man owning 100 acres of land to a tax of $100, and the man that had its equivalent in cash would not have to pay at all. We believe that the Legislature will not return to the Legislature. Springfield News-Leader.

Credit Men After Cold Check Passers.

At the annual meeting of the Lexington Credit Men's Association in Lexington last week, which was attended by Messrs. M. C. Kellogg and Allen Zaring, of this city, the Banking and Legislative Committee reported that the Louisville Credit Men's Association was preparing for presentation to the legislature a bill to make it a penal offense to pass a "cold check." A special committee was appointed at that meeting to co-operate with a similar committee from the Louisville Association, which also is a member of the National Association of Credit Men, to secure its favorable consideration. A bill has also been introduced in the legislature making it a penal offense to obtain goods on a false credit statement. The members of the association, comprising the leading jobbers and millers of Central Kentucky, have agreed to exchange information as to their experience with merchants buying goods in this territory in order that these merchants who are guilty of well recognized trade abuses may be known to the members with whom they may seek to do business.

Proposed Law.

One of the hardest things on our system of roads, is heavy loads hauled on wagons with narrow tires, especially in wet weather. Representative R. D. Hunter has introduced a bill making it unlawful to haul a load exceeding two tons in weight on any turnpike or gravel road with a tire less than three and one-half inches wide. Winchester Democrat.

Bootleggers Punished.

Judge Fennell, of Oynthana, and Judge Greenleaf, of Richmond, are conducting reform schools for bootleggers. The Oynthana Democrat says: "Five of the popular colored population charged with bootlegging were arrested last Friday and Saturday by Chief of Police Hughes, and are now serving their time in the Walnut Street Station House. James Ewing is to be tried, and the remaining four received the following: 'Fish' Irving Smith, two charges, $200 and forty days; Isham Perrin, $100 and forty days; John Brooks, $100 and forty days; John Miller, $100. Police Judge Fennell gave the violators the full limit except the latter, who pleaded guilty, and thus escaped the forty days jail sentence. All will serve at the rate of $1 a day. The total number of days the bunch will serve will be 700, and the city will pay $250 out in cash for their board alone. Mr. Hughes says more arrests will follow on the above charge."

The Snake Habit

If Turley Mathers had not had an attractive personality he never would have lasted as a figure in society, because the most amiable of hostesses might be pardoned for disapproving a caller who insisted on skinning snakes on her front porch and demanding admiration for their lines and colors.

The year he spent the summer at Wigwam lake is still recalled solemnly as a landmark by the cottagers. All the children were going around dragging snakes after them because Turley had taught them how to catch and hold the creeping things safely, and more mothers went into hysterics that year than had in the century preceding.

The worst of it was that Mathers was a person of scientific attainments and had a perfectly valid excuse for studying snakes. Nobody could say he did it to be unique or troublesome. If you feebly said that you weren't crazy about snakes Mathers simply drew a long breath, fixed you with a pitying stern glance and lectured to you on your sins. When he had finished you were in such a flabby state that you would have let a snake perch on your forehead.

Mathers met Clara Baysworth out west when her party and his combined for a camping trip through a noted canyon, and the acquaintance progressed at the rate of ten miles a minute until the fatal moment when the stage coach driver, apparently pointed with his whip to the side of the unmarked road. There, lazily stretched out, lay a rattlesnake. Mathers says it was a mere baby snake of a foot and a half or so, but it was inquired of the others any of them would have told you it was a horrible monster six feet long, with cerise eyes and a foaming mouth.

Before any one realized what he was doing, Mathers, with a gurgle of pleasure, had slipped to the ground, swept the snake into a heap with his straw hat, deftly grabbed it around its neck with three fingers and held it up to be admired. Persons who do the unusual are instantly pronounced crazy by everybody else, so the conviction instantly settled upon the stagecoach driver that any man who would deliberately pick up a rattlesnake must be insane. Clara Baysworth got her voice first as Mathers, still holding his prize, started to climb back to his seat by her side.

"Go away!" she got out in a strangled voice. "If you come any nearer I'll stick knives into you!" The distracted coachman echoed her cry. "Father clasped his arms about them and glared at Mathers, women shrunk into corners and fixed him with imploring eyes. Clara frowned at him, pale and desperate.

"Why—" Mathers began soothingly, and put one foot upon the hub of the wheel. But a series of shrieks arose from his victims.

"I hate you!" Clara Baysworth told him wildly.

"He's a perfect beauty," Mathers announced firmly, "and I want him for a specimen." Then he shrugged his shoulders. "Oh, well," he said, "I suppose I can strangle the little beggar."

His fingers tightened their clasp around the scaly neck and presently the rattlesnake limped. Putting him in a convenient box and stowing the box in his pocket, Mathers remounted his coach, but the atmosphere was strained.

For twenty miles he tried to reform Clara Baysworth. He told her frankly that he was pained and displeased by her foolish prejudice, but even that did not move her. She regarded him with alien eyes.

"I'll listen to you," she said, "when you stop being so perfectly foolish! And if you ask me again to marry you while you are carrying that thing around with you I'll scream!"

Somebody who was brave opened the box the next morning to see the dead snake and the camp nearly broke up as the rattler winked one eye and waved his tail at the horrified meddler, having survived his choking. As Mathers had known he would. Mathers paled before Clara Baysworth's accusing eyes.

"You certainly have nerve," she told him, "to ask a girl to endure things like this the rest of her life! I don't care whether it is science or not! You might experiment with guinea pigs or ducks!"

"I'll chloroform 'em!" Mathers offered, miserably.

CLAIMS OLE BULL'S ISLAND

Estate Was Bequeathed to a Swiss Child by the Famous Violinist's Daughter.

Ralph S. Bartlett, who was counsel for Mrs. Ole Bull, the famous violinist, successfully contested the will of Mrs. Bull in the probate court of York county, Maine, last summer, recently left on board the steamship Franconia for Liverpool on his way to the Mrs. Vaughan's will at Bergen, Norway, the New York Herald's Boston correspondent says.

Mr. Bartlett is executor for the will of Mrs. Vaughan, and he and Miss Amelia Shapleigh of West Lebanon, Me., are co-trustees for Sylvia Vaughan, the adopted daughter of Mrs. Vaughan and the principal beneficiary under Mrs. Vaughan's will.

The reason that the will of Mrs. Vaughan is to be offered for record in Bergen is that the only foreign real estate which she possessed is the island of Lysoen, near Bergen. Ole Bull owned this island, which is said to be one of the most beautiful in the world. It is in a fjord about twenty-two miles from Bergen, and consists of about seven hundred acres of land, largely forest.

Ole Bull in his life-time developed two fresh water lakes and a cave and laid out twenty miles of paths on the island.

Lysoen was left by Mrs. Vaughan to the little Swiss girl, Sylvia, whom she adopted a couple of years ago, but Sylvia's death Lysoen is to be preserved by the Norwegian government as a memorial to Ole Bull.

The exact procedure which will be followed in Norway with respect to the case is a matter of uncertainty, because under the Norwegian law no foreigner can own real estate in that country without the written consent of the king.

WHEN LANDIS WAS NAMED

Brother of Judge Tells How He Came to Be Called Keneas Mountain.

"The most memorable Christmas I ever spent was during the war," said former Representative Landis of Indiana at the Willard. "My father had returned from the war on leave of absence to find another son. He had taken part in the fight at Keneas mountain, and when he found his heir awaiting him he suggested the name Keneas Mountain. That is how my brother, who has become more or less noted as a judge, came to be named."

"But it was not that incident that made my Christmas so memorable. Keneas was a baby. I had other brothers. We were living a few miles from a small town in Indiana, and my father had only a few days' leave. He was compelled to rejoin his regiment before Christmas, if I remember correctly."

"I shall never forget the day before that Christmas. My father and mother went to town, and the boys naturally were much excited. When mother came back with her bundle we were more excited. It turned out that father had purchased us some gifts. Mine was a candy can. The other boys had similar gifts. I had great appreciation of the candy I placed him affectionally on the 'what-not' of the best room, and took many pilgrimages to have a look at him. Of course, I caressed him, and now and then I would take a loving lick. For several days following Christmas my camel remained there, but one day I could not resist the temptation, and, turning carver, I devoured my darling. I do not know what the boys did with their animals, but I suppose they went the same way that mine did."—Washington Post.

Heine and London.

Heine did not like London, but the London county council likes Heine, for the passer is now reminded by the usual encaustic tile that the poet once lived in Craven street, Strand. As he looked out of his lodging Heine exclaimed, "Send a philosopher to London, but no poet. This downright earnestness of all things; this colossal uniformity, this machine-like movement, this moroseness even in pleasure, this exaggerated London fragments are thrown upon the floor in a thousand pieces. Then she gets up and collects those pieces, and the point is that not a fragment is lost. For this is the new way of gardening—the stooping cure that is recommended by every doctor. You can do it in your home, and do not require a garden. It is only to buy the morning paper, tear it into fragments, chuck them on the floor and pick them up. Quite as good as gardening."

A New Kind of Exercise.

It is a morning exercise invented by a Parisian actress, who takes the newspaper and tears it up. The fragments are thrown upon the floor in a thousand pieces. Then she gets up and collects those pieces, and the point is that not a fragment is lost. For this is the new way of gardening—the stooping cure that is recommended by every doctor. You can do it in your home, and do not require a garden. It is only to buy the morning paper, tear it into fragments, chuck them on the floor and pick them up. Quite as good as gardening."

Aerial Postal Service in Italy.

Italy is the latest country to try an aerial postal service. The Italian aeronaut Dal Mistro recently carried a sack of mail between the Bologna and Venice postoffices in a Duperdusini monoplane, covering the distance of 101 miles in one hour and twenty-eight minutes.

SICKLY CHILD

Made Well By Vinol—Letters from a Grateful Mother.
New Haven, Conn.—"My little girl, ever since her birth, was frail and sickly and nothing seemed to do her any good until we tried your cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol. As soon as she commenced to take it, I noticed an improvement in her health and appearance. She has now taken three bottles of Vinol, and from the good it has done her I can say I will do my claim for it in building up and strengthening frail and delicate children." (Name furnished on request.)
Another mother of Chicago, Ill., writes: "I can not say too much in praise of Vinol for delicate, ailing children."
We ask every mother of a frail, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it does not do all we claim.

Ground-Hog Saw His Shadow

Friday was Ground-hog Day and he saw his shadow, as the sun was shining at 12 o'clock, the hour he is supposed to emerge from his winter quarters. But it doesn't matter about that, for the hog; neither will the weather for the next six weeks be indicated by the sun's shining or not shining at noon on the second day of February. That old theory has been exploded many times and is no good. If we have no more than six weeks longer of winter weather, which will carry us to March 15, we will be, indeed, fortunate. However, it is spring permanently sets in by April first, it will then be earlier than usual in this latitude.

Not a Pauper.

Lincoln county denies most vehemently that she has switched to the pauper column. She claims that the figures which have been published, and which show that she is in the pauper column for 1912, were compiled and furnished by the whisky element, and were not taken from the Auditor's books, as has been stated.

Madison Institute Comes in for Share of Funds.

Egg Famine in Madison.

Madison county is in the throes of an egg famine, such as was never seen here before. During the cold weather, it seems, that all hens have gone on strike, as very few eggs could be had at any price last week and those sold brought 5c each. The grocers say eggs are scarcer than ever known here before.

It has long been a Democratic custom in Madison county to give a second term to those officials who perform their duty during the first term of office, and you can make no mistake by deciding to cast your vote for R. B. Terrill for re-election to the office of County Court Clerk.

It takes more than 15,000,000 miles of single wire for the people of this country to communicate with one another over the telephone and telegraph. Thirteen million miles of this wire are used for telephoning, and the total length of all the wire would circle the earth at the equator 600 times.

This is the season of the year when mothers feel very much concerned over the frequent colds contracted by their children, and have abundant reason for it as every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality and paves the way for the more serious disease that so often follows. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures, and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

To Allow Interest.

There is a movement on foot to pass a law that where counties owe money for services rendered, and cannot pay cash that six per cent interest shall be allowed on claims. Something of the same kind should be done for our teachers who have to wait for months to secure their hard earned wages.

To the Public.

After footing up the sales of the Madison Milling Company for the first month, the proprietors are pleased to say that its volume of business has outstripped their most sanguine expectations and especially has this been true with reference to Richmond and Madison county merchants. They are gratified to find a growing disposition on the part of the public to patronize home industries and to demand goods "made in Richmond" just as Clark county people want goods "made in Winchester" and Fayette county people want goods "made in Lexington."

The Madison Milling Company guarantees its products to be as good as any in the world. We think then that its flour, meal and feed should be given the preference over that of foreign concerns for several reasons. First—If there is anything wrong you can fix it. Then we furnish a home market for your wheat and corn. We pay taxes here, helping to build streets, turnpikes and school houses. Local shops build our wagons and shoe our eight head of horses.

Nine telephones are rented by people connected with the Madison Milling Company, making business for the local telephone company, which employs local help. Sixty people, including families of proprietors and employees, are consumers of supplies furnished by Richmond merchants. This spirit of local reciprocity should be encouraged. Spend your money at home and you may see it again. Send it away, and it is gone forever.

Please call for Madison Milling Company's brands when ordering from your merchant.
